The Magazine for Alumni and Friends of Campbellsville University

A word from the president...

JANUARY 2005

Dear alumni and friends,

Campbellsville University is experiencing some very positive changes. Our “momentum” comes from you - alumni and friends - who believe in the mission of Christian higher education. I want to “thank you” for your support so we might reach new heights of service to the students, our community, and beyond. Students must remain our central focus if the great mission of Campbellsville University is to be realized.

As our Centennial celebration grows nearer, which will take place in 2006/2007, we as a university community are striving to reach important levels of service. Fall semester 2004 will be remembered for several milestones which include:

- CU has enrolled over 2,052 students - the highest enrollment ever in the history of the University. We are so fortunate to have these young men and women enrolled in this institution of Christian higher education. There is no better time than now for Christian learning. Enrollment increased 2.8 percent over fall 2003. All categories of enrollment have increased this semester including:
 - The number of incoming transfer students represents the highest increase at 38.5 percent with 126 students compared to 91 last fall.
 - Graduate enrollment is up 5.6 percent from 284 to 300 students in fall 2004.
 - Undergraduate enrollment is up 2.5 percent from 1,710 to 1,752 students.
 - Resident hall occupancy is up from 706 students to 748 for a 6 percent increase.
 - New freshmen increased to 392 compared to 365 in fall 2003. That's an increase of 7.4 percent.
- A full story on enrollment is on page 8.
- CU has received a $1 million challenge grant from The Kresge Foundation, one of the most prestigious philanthropic foundations in America. Receiving the grant opens up many new opportunities for Campbellsville University by the very nature of the name of the donor and their reputation. The Kresge Foundation grant is a challenge grant of $6.7 million for which we are striving to achieve. Read the full story on page 4.
- CU has announced a $35 million Centennial Capital Campaign - the largest financial campaign ever in the history of the University. The Campaign is off to a wonderful start with over $28 million having been raised.
- CU has been named to U.S. News & World Report's “Best Colleges Issue” with a top ranking for our master’s programs. We have been listed in the rankings for the past 12 years, but this year’s ranking for master’s programs is higher than last year and is in another tier which is higher than before.
- CU is in the construction phase of the E. Bruce Heilman Student Center Complex, which will impact the lives of all our students. Progress on the construction of the complex can be seen on a live web cam at www.campbellsville.edu.
- CU is working daily to secure additional funding to begin construction of the Ransdell Chapel.
- CU has begun the WEL program which is to foster, across the general education curriculum, a learning environment that promotes the interplay between writing, academic engagement and learning to support student's academic “WEL”-being.

More students, more financial support, more prayers...Campbellsville University is poised to become an even greater institution of Christian higher education because of you. We could not have succeeded without your help and the help of God. Thank you for all you do for Campbellsville University. 🍀

Most cordially,

Michael V. Carter

CU receives $1 million challenge grant from The Kresge Foundation for Centennial Campaign

BY JOAN C. MCKINNEY, Editor

Campbellsville University has received her first challenge grant from The Kresge Foundation for $1 million that will be used for the E. Bruce Heilman Student Center Complex.

"Campbellsville University is very pleased to receive this grant from The Kresge Foundation, which is one of the most prestigious philanthropic foundations in America," said Campbellsville University President Michael V. Carter.

The institution must secure gifts of $6,747,606 before Oct. 1, 2005 in order to receive the $1 million grant. "The Kresge Foundation challenge makes a significant impact on our ultimate $35 million Centennial Campaign goal," said Carter.

Dr. Alan G. Medders, vice president for development, said, "This is a tremendous acknowledgement for the wonderful support the university has received in gifts and pledges to our campaign already. The Kresge Foundation grant opens up many new opportunities for Campbellsville University. It allows us to approach university constituents and leading foundations across America for support toward the success of our centennial campaign."

The Kresge Foundation is an independent, private foundation created by the personal gifts of Sebastian S. Kresge. It is not affiliated with any corporation or organization.

The Kresge Foundation believes that a challenge grant toward an organization's capital project does more than just build a building or reward good programs. It presents an opportunity to build institutional capacity by helping an organization broaden and deepen its base of support from the private sector and by encouraging volunteer involvement in the fund-raising effort and beyond.

Campbellsville University's E. Bruce Heilman Student Center Complex is under construction on Hoskins Avenue across from the Campbellsville University Technology Training Center. The scheduled completion date is fall 2005.

CU moves higher in U.S. News & World Report's ranking for graduate education

BY JOAN C. MCKINNEY, Editor

The U.S. News & World Report's "America's Best Colleges" 2005 edition has been released, and Campbellsville University has moved higher in the issue with its graduate school ranking.

Campbellsville University has been named to the national college rankings for the 12th year in a row, but this year has moved to 64 of 572 in the South in the Best Universities Master's category in the magazine which has over 11 million circulation.

"Campbellsville University has a proud tradition of academic excellence in a Christian environment," said Campbellsville University President Michael V. Carter. "Our faculty, staff and administration always consider the needs of our students first. We at Campbellsville University provide the highest quality of academic performances, the strongest athletics, the best educational value and the most meaningful spiritual experiences to our students. Alumni of Campbellsville University, too, should be pleased with this announcement as this enhances the value of their diploma from this institution," said Carter. The classification was also helped by the 14 percent alumni giving rate CU has achieved.

U.S. News made a presentation change this year in the number of rankings that are published in the tables for the Universities-Master's and Comprehensive Colleges-Bachelor's categories. U.S. News increased the number of schools that were ranked to roughly the top half. This means that for these categories the second tier was eliminated.

The institutions are categorized by their mission and region with the gathering of data from each of 16 indicators of academic excellence. The schools are ranked against their peers, according to scores given by U.S. News & World Report.

Factors contributing to the ranking formula for master's schools are: peer assessment score, average freshman retention rate, average graduation rate, percent of classes under 20, percent of classes of 50 or more, student/faculty ratio, percent of faculty who are full time, SAT/ACT 25th-75th percentile, freshmen in top 25 percent of high school class, acceptance rate and alumni giving rate.

Campbellsville University offers eight master's programs including Master of Arts in Education, Master of Arts in Learning and Behavior Disorders, Master of Business Administration, Master of Music in Music Education, Master of Music in Church Music, Master of Arts in Music, Master of Theology and Master of Arts in Social Sciences. 🍁

CU marching band has largest membership since 1995; plays for approximately 20,000 people

BY ANNE GALITO, Student News Writer

With almost a record enrollment, the Campbellsville University Marching Band stepped out in style this year with new uniforms, playing the music of Chicago from the 1970s and performing before about 20,000 people during the marching season.

"The new uniforms have come at a particularly good time," said Dr. David McCullough, director of bands and professor of music. "We have the largest band we've had since 1995 and a very full season of performances. We performed at six home football games, as an exhibition band at three high school marching contests, and a new undertaking for us - an away football game when the CU Tigers traveled to their archrival Georgetown College."

"Mix all of that in with a couple of parades, pep rallies and other incidentals, and we performed for 15,000 to 20,000 spectators this season," McCullough said.

He said it is unusual for bands to travel to away games in the Mid-South Conference. McCullough said Dr. Alan Medders, vice president for development, provided the leadership in coordinating the resources and planning efforts of the Athletics Department, Development Office and School of Music to make this possible.

"Athletic Director Rusty Hollingsworth has also been very supportive of the project and is a great friend and supporter of the band in our mutual efforts to make CU athletic events second to none," McCullough said.

McCullough said he was also very excited about the high school performance exhibitions. "Not only is it fun for our students to get back into that exciting atmosphere that so many of them enjoyed during their high school years, it is also a good way for large numbers of high school band members to see us perform," he said.

The CU Tiger Marching Band does not compete during the high school competitions; they serve solely as an exhibition band.

The theme of this year's show was based on the music of the group Chicago. "It's definitely a high energy show that gets audiences on their feet," according to Jennifer Tinnell, CU's assistant band director, recruiter and instructor of music. "Of course, it was also a physically demanding show. We've been concerned about physical conditioning more this year than at almost anytime I can remember."

The new uniforms, the first in the band's 12-year history, have CU's maroon as the primary color. Black pants, shoes and hat plumes have replaced the white of the previous uniform.

"That's simply a function of style," said Tinnell. "The prevailing trend for high school and college band uniforms alike is the use of a darker color scheme."

"Our first set of uniforms served us well for 12 seasons," said McCullough. "However, as many had started to show wear and tear and as uniform styles had undergone some significant changes over the last decade, we saw a need to replace and update them." 🍁

Toyota awards Campbellsville University $150,000 for Science Connections Initiative

BY JOAN C. MCKINNEY, Editor

Campbellsville University has been awarded a $150,000 grant from the Toyota USA Foundation to expand the Science Connections Initiative, a science partnership project for K-12 teachers at Clay Hill Memorial Forest.

The announcement was made at CU's 135-acre Clay Hill Memorial Forest by Tom Zawacki, general manager of Toyota Motor Manufacturing Kentucky, Inc. of Georgetown, Ky. Also representing Toyota Motor Manufacturing North America, Inc. in Erlanger, Ky., were CU alumni Jana Martin Kemp and Shawn Stevens.

Campbellsville University is the only private institution in America and one of only three higher education institutions receiving the grant.

Zawacki said the Toyota USA Foundation is set up exclusively for funding pre-collegiate education programs with an emphasis on improving the teaching and learning of mathematics and science. Representatives from the foundation visited CU several months ago to learn more about the university's Science Connections Initiative at Clay Hill.

Alumni working at Toyota help CU

BY SHANNON THOMAS, Assistant Editor

When Toyota's grant was announced, two people in the audience were especially pleased for their alma mater. Campbellsville University alumni, Jana Martin Kemp and Shawn Stevens, are employed with Toyota and are supporters of CU.

Kemp, a 1978 graduate of CU, joined Toyota Motor Manufacturing, Georgetown and Erlanger as an assistant project manager after serving as an English and technical college instructor in Japan.

Stevens, a 1998 graduate of CU, started as a buyer for Toyota and then moved into the eBusiness Section of Purchasing. He was promoted to assistant manager of Information Systems Division in April 2003. He sits on the CU Board of Alumni.

Kemp and Stevens both agree that their experiences at CU helped them in their career path and in life.

"I wouldn't be where I am today if it weren't for my professors and experiences from CU," said Stevens. "I enjoyed my time there and continue to be surprised and excited by all the improvements to the campus and programs under the leadership of Dr. Michael Carter."

Kemp said that CU has a dedicated faculty and staff and small class sizes which allow students to work directly with professors and administrators. "That's something you don't find at other schools," she said.

Both Kemp and Stevens said they were very impressed with campus expansion, and they think it is crucial to provide students with the best facilities possible, yet they recognize the need for alumni support in order for these projects to move forward.

"For those of us who have been fortunate enough to be successful early in our careers, we need to understand the numerous opportunities to help. You don't have to give lots of money. The smallest donation from alumni helps to boost various percentages that are used to ask for outside grants," said Stevens.

Stevens challenged other alumni and friends of CU to "open up the pipeline of communication between your company and the university."

"Not only did Toyota give CU a grant, they now attend CU job fairs, all due to alumni investigating opportunities," he said.

Campbellsville University remembers major supporters during Montgomery Library rededication with Colvin Baptist Collection

BY SHANNON THOMAS, Assistant Editor

Two families were honored for their service to Campbellsville University during the rededication of Montgomery Library and the dedication of the A.B. Colvin Baptist Collection and Archives Room July 22 in the Montgomery Library.

The late Drs. A.B. Colvin and Ed Montgomery, both former CU trustees, and their wives, Irene Colvin and the late Ovaleta Montgomery, were "giants who walked among us," in their dedication to the library and Christian service to CU, according to Dr. Michael V. Carter, CU president.

"It was A.B. Colvin's wish that CU have a strong resource center that would house a collection of wisdom and ministry that was his library," Carter said. "It was through the work and toil of Ed Montgomery that a great library be the centerpiece of Christian higher education," he said.

John Burch, director of library services and assistant professor, said that the Montgomery Library used to be about "20 years behind everyone else" but a lead gift by Ed and Ovaleta Montgomery made it possible to purchase state-of-the-art library technology. The gift also allowed for the renovation of the library's physical plant, which included the creation of both 25 percent more space and a computer lab.

"A.B. Colvin's archive collection added approximately 30,000 more books to our estimated 155,000 book collection," Burch said.

Cassandra Carr, Dr. A.B. Colvin's daughter, who spoke on behalf of her sister, Cynthia Weller, and her mother, Irene, thanked the university for housing and caring for her father's book collection. "These books were collected, cataloged, consumed and contributed by my father," said Carr. She remembered her father grabbing stacks of books to study while preparing for sermons. "Now students will also be able to consume these books for lessons, sermons and just to find answers to questions," Carr said.

Guy Montgomery thanked CU on behalf of his parents, Ed and Ovaleta. "Our family appreciates the opportunity to be involved with CU. It was important to my parents and it's important to my family," Montgomery said.

Jerry Bennett, chair of the CU Board of Trustees, said Colvin was always energetic and "always with words of wisdom but imparted them only at the most appropriate times. They've taken their place in standing beside those who made CU what she is today," said Bennett. 🍁

CU enrollment passes 2,000 for first time in history

BY JOAN C. MCKINNEY, Editor

Campbellsville University has a record enrollment of 2,052 students - the first time the institution has exceeded 2,000 students in her 100-year history.

This is also the third consecutive year of record fall enrollment.

CU President Michael V. Carter, who is beginning his sixth year as president, said enrollment has increased 2.8 percent since fall 2003 when 1,994 students were enrolled.

All categories of enrollment have increased this semester, Carter said, with the number of incoming transfer students representing the highest increase at 38.5 percent with 126 students compared to 91 last fall.

Graduate enrollment is up 5.6 percent from 284 to 300 students in fall 2004. Undergraduate enrollment is up 2.5 percent from 1,710 to 1,752 students, and the resident hall occupancy is up from 706 students to 748 for a 6 percent increase.

The number of new freshmen for fall was 392 compared to 365 in fall 2003. That's an increase of 7.4 percent.

"We are very pleased with all of our numbers," said Carter. "Our office of admissions staff, under the direction of Dave Walters, vice president for admissions and student services, is to be commended for their hard work."

"We are always interested in working with students to help them accomplish their goals," Walters said.

CU has educational outreach programs in Brazil and Albany, Ky., Walters said, in addition to the new Louisville Education Center. He said dual-credit programs are strong; these involve high school students taking college credit courses and getting a jump-start on their college education.

"Our office of financial aid should also be congratulated on their efforts in working with our students to obtain the best financial aid package possible," Carter said.

"New programs," Carter said, "such as criminal justice, special education, sports ministry, environmental science and social science as well as additional student life and athletic program make CU very attractive." 🍁

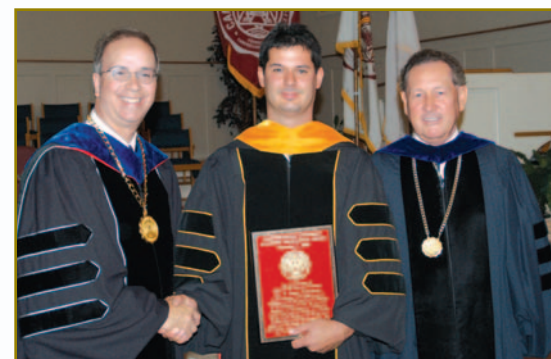

Campbellsville University's Summers receives non-tenured faculty award

BY ANNE GALITO, Student News Writer

Dr. R. Brent Summers, chair of the division of natural science and associate professor of biology at CU, received the non-tenured faculty award during the first convocation/chapel of the semester.

Summers received his bachelor's, master's and Ph.D. in biology from the University of Louisville. He joined the faculty of CU in 1999 as an assistant professor of biology. Before working at CU, he was an adjunct lecturer in biology at Indiana University SE and a graduate teaching assistant at U of L.

While at CU, he has served on the General Education Committee, the Judicial Council, the Environmental Committee, been the parliamentarian for the Faculty Forum, served as the vice chair of the Faculty Forum,

CU School of Theology names new dean

Dr. John Hurtgen, interim dean of the School of Theology at Campbellsville University, has been promoted to dean of the School of Theology at CU, according to Michael V. Carter, president.

"Dr. Hurtgen understands the significance and value of the Campbellsville University experience as well as the important role our School of Theology plays in the Commonwealth and our world," Carter said.

Hurtgen has served the university since 1990, beginning as an instructor of Christian studies. Along with serving as dean of the School of Theology, Hurtgen serves as the director of the baccalaureate Christian studies program. 🍁

CU alumnus provides service to Iraq

BY SHANNON THOMAS, Assistant Editor

James Bane ('02) could be doing anything he wanted to right now. Instead, he's just returned home from an eight-month stay in Iraq.

Bane, originally from Celina, Tenn., and son of Jim Bane and Barbara Seeley of Allons, Tenn., decided to join the United States Marine Corps Reserve in 2001, while still a student at CU.

Before he learned he was going to be stationed in Iraq, Bane had been stationed in Parris Island, S.C., Fort Leonard Wood, Mo., Camp Lejeune, N.C. and 29 Palms, California.

It was at Camp Lejeune where Bane found out that he would be going with Military Police Company Charlie out of Dayton, Ohio to Iraq.

"I was concerned about leaving my family and having them worry about me, but I wanted to make a difference and help better the lives of people in Iraq," he said. "It was also gratifying knowing that I would get to replace some soldiers who'd been there for about a year."

Bane said his company's mission was to establish a police academy for Iraqis, effectively train them as police officers and support them as they performed their duties as police officers. "Another mission was to support other Marines in any area in which they needed assistance," Bane said.

He said, although no one in his crew wanted to leave their families, they did so because their country needed them. "It's been a unique experience, living in a new culture, working with the nationals face to face and being so far from what we know as the norm," said Bane.

Bane said he enjoyed the strong bond he formed with his fellow Marines and said they were "brothers forever." The hard part, he said, was watching some Americans give up their lives, but, "If you look at it the right way, there is always a positive with a negative, and I pray that both sides can become wise to see a solution to end this; life is always better than death."

"I'd like to thank the people back home from the bottom of my heart. Their prayers, letters and boxes of goodies got us through," said Bane.

Bane said he felt encouraged by the fact that the CU family had kept up with him all this time. "CU gave me a foundation to begin my life," he said. "I knew God before I knew CU, but through CU I know God. I found an endless amount of true friends who I see as family and teachers who became much more-mentors. There is something great to be said about the Lord's presence on that campus, and anywhere I go, I not only represent the Marines, I also represent CU."

While at Campbellsville University, Bane was named Mr. Campbellsville University. He had a double major in communications/theater arts and sports ministry.

Bane hopes to one day fulfill his dream of being an officer in the Marines and would also like to attend graduate school. He can be reached at sssplifeguard@yahoo.com. 🍁

Covenant - Planned gifts can make difference for Centennial Campaign and Kresge Challenge

Dr. Alan Medders

A Financial Planning Guide for Alumni and Friends of Campbellsville University

A Supplement to the Campbellsvillian

The Covenant Society is a recognition society for those who make Campbellsville University a part of their estate plan by including the university in their wills, making the university a beneficiary of insurance policies in which ownership has been assigned to the university, or by participating in any of the various life-income plans Campbellsville University has available. Today, over 200 alumni and friends are members of the Covenant Society. If the university is part of your estate plan, let us know!

BY ALAN G. MEDDERS, Vice President for Development

Planned gifts can make difference for Centennial Campaign and Kresge Challenge

CU president Dr. Michael V. Carter recently announced the public phase of Campbellsville University's $35 million Centennial Campaign. At the time, over $23 million had been received toward the goal. However, the following week The Kresge Foundation awarded CU a $1 million Challenge Grant to benefit the E. Bruce Heilman Student Center Complex. In order to capitalize on the grant, the University must receive $6.7 million in gifts and pledges by Oct. 1, 2005. At press time, $2 million had been received toward the challenge. Keep track of our weekly progress at www.campbellsville.edu.

What does planned giving have to do with the Centennial Campaign and Kresge Challenge? A significant amount. Almost all planned gifts can count toward the campaign and Kresge Challenge goals. Consider these planned giving options that could benefit you and the university and help us reach our campaign and Kresge Challenge goals.

1. The Charitable Remainder Trust

Assets are placed into a charitable remainder trust which pays an income to the donor or another beneficiary for up to 20 years or for one or more persons' lifetimes. At the end of the trust term, the trust assets are distributed to Campbellsville University.

Benefits of Charitable Remainder Trusts

- You can make a significant impact on Campbellsville University.
- You receive an annual income at a rate chosen by you (the minimum rate by law is 5%).
- You receive an immediate income tax deduction for the value of CU's remainder interest (assuming the trust is created during your lifetime).
- You avoid capital-gains tax on any long-term appreciated assets you place in trust.
- You are entitled to charitable gift and estate tax deduction.

2. A Charitable Gift Annuity

You make a gift of cash or securities to CU in exchange for a guaranteed, fixed income each year for the rest of your life.

Benefits of Making a Gift Annuity with CU

- You make a significant impact on the future of Campbellsville University.
- You may receive a charitable income tax deduction.
- You receive guaranteed income payments for life.
- You receive tax-free income.
- You receive capital gains tax savings.

3. A Remainder Interest In A Home

You gift your residence, vacation home or farm today while retaining the use of the property as long as you live.

Benefits of a Gift of the Remainder Interest in Your Home

- You can make a significant impact on the future of CU.
- You receive an immediate income tax deduction for the present value of the remainder interest in your home.
- You continue to live in your home, take care of it, pay taxes and even receive any income it generates.
- At your death, your home passes immediately to CU, outside of probate, possibly saving some unnecessary expenses and delays.

4. A Charitable Lead Trust

You use your assets to provide an income stream to CU for a set number of years. When the trust ends, the assets return to you or your loved ones. This trust is called a lead trust because the charity leads off by receiving income payments during the trust term.

Benefits of a Lead Trust

- You can make a significant impact on the future of CU.
- You are entitled to an income tax deduction for the present value of the income payments to CU over the trust term, and you receive this deduction in the year the trust is created.
- Your assets are returned to you when the trust ends.

CU grads raise family while working and obtaining education

BY ANNE GALITO, Student News Writer

Furthering your education and trying to raise a family can be a very difficult task, but according to Alan Reed, owner and general manager of WHVE radio, it can be done.

Reed, who is originally from Liberty, Ky., and his wife, Jane, originally from Columbia, Ky., both attended CU while raising a young family. They commuted from Columbia and worked full-time while attending what was then Campbellsville College. Reed worked at a radio station while his wife worked as a bookkeeper for Rogers Chiropractic in Columbia. They had two small children while attending college.

"If it hadn't been for Campbellsville College," said Reed, "we couldn't have finished our college education." "If it doesn't kill you," he said, "it builds character."

Reed graduated from CU in 1984 with a bachelor's degree in biology. He continued his education at Western Kentucky University in Bowling Green, Ky. where he earned his master's degree in biology and education. He also did graduate work at Tennessee Technical University in Cookeville, Tenn.

Mrs. Reed graduated from CU in 1984 with a bachelor's degree in elementary education and received her master's of elementary education from WKU.

Mrs. Reed works at John Adair Intermediate School and is in her 20th year of teaching. She has been named to CU's Excellence in Teaching Award list and has also been named an "Outstanding Educator in Adair County."

One of the best memories Reed has of CU is that he felt he had a personal relationship and friendship with his professors, especially Dr. Gordon Weddle and Dr. Milton Rogers, both professors of biology. After graduation, he continued to do scientific presentations with Weddle.

After college, Reed taught science at Casey County High School in Liberty, Ky., served as an adjunct professor of science at Lindsey Wilson College in Columbia and was a principal at Knifley Grade Center and Colonel William Casey Elementary School in Columbia.

While teaching and serving as a principal, Reed continued to work in radio. He did voice-overs and worked as a narrator. His love of radio was obvious; he applied for a license to create a station in Columbia in 1990, then sold the license and later entered into negotiations to buy it back in February 2002.

The station is known as 92.7 WHVE - "The Wave" and is now Reed's full-time job. "It's been an honor to come back into a profession I used to do so long ago," he said.

"We're all about community," Reed said. "WHVE is one of the few radio stations in the area that is not owned by a large corporation. The station is doing very well because of localism."

"We're unique because we are the only station in the area that has a city license in three cities: Russell Springs, Jamestown and Columbia," Reed said. "We strive to be the local outlet in Russell and Adair counties."

The station has recently been remodeled and has more than doubled the size of the original building.

"We had to look like the corporate entity we told everyone we were," Reed said. He feels that a good presentation of an on-air product should be paired with an impressive facility.

Reed's favorite part of the radio business is "the ability to affect change in community and to help the community through news, editorials and being active in the community."

"If there's something going on, we're a part of it."

Alumni return to their alma mater for Homecoming 2004

BY SHANNON THOMAS, Assistant Editor

Campbellsville University hosted her annual Homecoming celebration the weekend of Oct. 16 with thousands of people on hand for the activities, according to Benji Kelly, director of alumni relations.

"There was a great turnout of faculty, staff, alumni, family and friends of the university at the Homecoming activities," said Kelly.

Although Kelly was disappointed that CU could not provide free hot air balloon rides on campus due to the high winds, he said everyone seemed to enjoy the many other activities. "We had about 600 people show up for the barbeque Friday night," said Kelly. "In addition to that, around 1,100 people turned up for the Homecoming Festival," he said.

Another popular activity was the car show. Stan McKinney, coordinator of the car show, said there were 55 entrants this year. The President's Award for Best of Show, chosen by Dr. Michael V. Carter, CU president, went to J.W. McFarland of Campbellsville, who entered a 1955 Mercury Montclair. The Alumni Award was won by Brenda Simmons Martin of Magnolia, Ky., a 1984 alumnae, and her husband, Hoyt, who drove a 1939 two-door Chevy sedan. The Participant's Choice Award was given to Gary Summers of Campbellsville who had a 1968 Pontiac Firebird.

Several car show participants rode in the Homecoming parade, held in downtown Campbellsville, and were eligible to win $100 which was won by J.K. Edwards of Hodgenville who was driving a 1955 Chevy Belair.

Several CU organizations also took part in the parade, as they had worked all week on floats to enter in the parade. Winning first place and $300 was Residence Life, KEA-SP won second place and $200 and third place went to Social Workers in Touch Can Help (SWITCH), with a $100 award.

The best part of Homecoming, according to Kelly, was the 27-17 defeat of Lambuth University and the crowning of the Homecoming Queen. The Fighting Tigers defeated Lambuth's Eagles 27 to 17 for the fourth time in 17 games. This was the first time the Tigers defeated Lambuth in consecutive seasons.

Kaysee Graham of Campbellsville, daughter of Bobby and Connie Graham, who represented SWITCH, was crowned Homecoming Queen at halftime during Saturday's game. First runner-up was Rachael Hurt of Shepherdsville, Ky., who represented the junior class; and second runner-up was Bethany Parrott of Versailles, Ky., who represented the Baptist Student Union. The freshman attendant was Theres Fagundes of Campbellsville.

Numerous reunions took place on campus including the 25th anniversary of the Handbell Choir, former student workers in the Office of University Communications, and the 1954 class being inducted into the Golden Heritage Club.

In attendance at the handbell choir reunion during CU Homecoming were (from left): Mary Carole Sutton (*76), Myra Sutton (*79), Linda Spears Egbert (*82), Kathy Hardy Price (*90), Dana Jones, a current CU student and Julie Winn Eaton (*81). There were 30 former ringers at the reunion, and combined with the 2004, 2005 Handbell Choir, there were 43 ringers total involved in the 25th Anniversary Handbell Choir Reunion Concert. Class of 1954 joins Golden Heritage Club

BY JOAN C. MCKINNEY, Editor

"Hello to the most wonderful class in our university history." Shirley Strader Lawson of Virginia Beach, Fla., who chaired the reunion of the 1954 class, was the spokeswoman for the class as they became members of the Golden Heritage Club at Homecoming.

She even composed a song about the class of 1954 which she entitled "I'll See You at C.U." (The '54 Heritage Chorus).

Each year, classmates who graduated 50 years ago, become members of the Golden Heritage Club. This year's recipients of that distinction met for breakfast at the Betty Dobbins Heilman House and then attended a luncheon in the Little Auditorium.

As Lawson addressed those attending, she said one of the most important influences of their two years on campus (CU was a junior college in 1954), was to go on weekend revival services.

She memorialized Jerry Bergen, BSU president, who was to marry and go on the mission field with his wife following graduation. However, returning home from a weekend revival mission trip, Bergen drove off the road into a tree and was instantly killed. Everyone else was okay except one person who had a slight hand injury.

Lawson said, after his funeral, a census was taken and only eight of the 368 students had not accepted Christ as their savior.

Lawson mentioned several other people including Phyllis Key, who helped the president at that time, Dr. John

Living to serve mankind,
you give honor
and glory to God.
I'll see you...

Campbellsville
UNIVERSITY

2003-2004 PRESIDENT'S ANNUAL REPORT

Find Your Calling

Dear Alumni & Friends,

Campbellsville University has completed another tremendous year of financial support. During the fiscal year 2003-04, gifts totaling $4.7 million were given to support the growing amount of scholarship needs, endowment and new and improved facilities.

The increased giving to the University mirrors the tremendous student growth on campus. Exceeding 2,000 students for the first time in our history was a substantial milestone for the University. Your gifts and support of Campbellsville University make this growth possible and for that I want to say "thank you."

The new $1.5 million addition to the Women's Residence Village was completed for the beginning of the fall semester. And, because of the continued growth, the Board of Trustees has now approved another 48-bed addition to be completed by fall 2005.

Construction has begun for the $5.5 million E. Bruce Heilman Student Center Complex that contains the Winters Dining Hall and the Davenport Student Commons. You can watch the construction of the complex via a web cam on our web site at www.campbellsville.edu. The complex will be complete as students return for the fall 2005 semester.

The dreams do not stop there. It is our dream to secure $3.8 to $4 million to begin construction on the Ransdell Chapel. To date, we have raised $2.5 million in gifts and pledges.

Please keep this important and significant project in your prayers. I believe this facility will allow us to grow academically and spiritually. I hope you will consider making a gift to make the Ransdell Chapel a reality during our Centennial Celebration of 2006.

All of this excitement culminated with two significant events this fall. We announced the beginning of the public phase of our $35 million Centennial Campaign Sept. 19 at our annual President's Club dinner. The goals of the campaign are: $20 million for capital, $10 million for annual support and $5 for endowment. As of Dec. 31, we have raised $28,100,584 toward the total goal; $11,079,855 for capital, $14,146,382 for annual and $2,874,347 for endowment.

The second event occurred the following week when we were informed by The Kresge Foundation that we received a $1,000,000 Challenge Grant. I hope you take the time to read the complete information on The Kresge Foundation challenge grant in the magazine on page four.

Still on the horizon are the construction of a new tennis complex and renovation of the Student Union building. Currently, the University theme is "Find Your Calling." Each of these improvements is intended to strengthen our outreach to students so they might know God's call on their life.

We want our students to have the experiences and opportunities to be successful in their education and life. May God continue to guide our University as we strive to set the pace as a truly superior Christian institution of higher learning. ✝

Most cordially,

Michael V. Carter

CU tennis coach named Mid-South Conference men's tennis 'coach of the year'

BY SHANNON THOMAS, Assistant Editor

Leigh Sullivan, Campbellsville University's head men's and women's tennis coach, has recently been named the 2004 Mid-South Conference Men's Tennis Coach of the Year, according to Rusty Hollingsworth, director of athletics at Campbellsville University.

"We are proud of Leigh, his accomplishment and his representation of Campbellsville University," said Hollingsworth.

Sullivan, originally from London, England, came to CU in 1999 after serving as an assistant tennis coach at Carson-Newman College. In addition to serving as tennis coach, Sullivan serves as an instructor and webmaster for the School of Education.

Leigh Sullivan

Sullivan said he formed a unique style of coaching by giving athletes a voice, because it's an individual sport and "everyone has different playing styles, mental games and ways to train." Stephen Cross, a senior from South Africa, said Sullivan's "laid-back" attitude and strong motivational skills gained respect from his players. Cross is the #3 seed on the CU men's team.

The key to a successful team, according to Sullivan, is building a team from the bottom up. "The team has to have depth, not just one or two good players," said Sullivan. He said the 2003-2004 men's team had depth and the team's win-loss record, 11-8, improved immensely from other years, which he believes resulted in his being honored Coach of the Year.

"We were runners up in the regular season this year. Although I was proud, I was still surprised that I was chosen to be 'Coach of the Year,'" said Sullivan.

Coach of the Year is chosen by the other MSC men's and women's tennis coaches. Sullivan said he was honored that his group of peers saw the improvement in his team over the years and chose him to be "Coach of the Year" over the winner of the regular season.

"It was an incredible experience that would have never happened without the team's motivation and dedication, and the support from Campbellsville University and Hollingsworth," said Sullivan.

According to Hollingsworth, this is only the beginning for Sullivan, as construction of a new tennis complex began during the summer. Sullivan said he was grateful and thankful that CU President Dr. Michael V. Carter, vice president for development Dr. Alan Medders and Hollingsworth recognized the need for university tennis courts and supported the idea.

"Recruiting players has always been one of my toughest challenges," said Sullivan. He said his team was often forced to share courts at Campbellsville's Miller Park with several area high schools, cutting into practice time and match time. He also said that the weight room in the newly constructed Hawkins Athletic Center was a bonus, as his teams have an adequate place to train.

"If we're going to attract good players, we have to have good facilities," said Sullivan. He said the new tennis complex would not only benefit his players, but it would also be a great tool for CU faculty, staff and students.

The construction of the tennis complex should be completed by spring 2005. 🍀

EDITOR'S NOTE: As an alumna of Campbellsville University and former captain of the CU Women's Tennis Team, I am extremely pleased with the strides the university has made in improving conditions for tennis players and other students.

My freshman year, the women's team earned 2nd place in the conference tournament and became the first NAIA nationally ranked women's tennis team in CU's history. Unfortunately, many of our players that year were seniors, and it has been tough enticing others to come to CU to play tennis because we share tennis courts with area high schools. We had to work around the high school team's practice schedule. Additionally, individual practice was difficult for students without cars.

Therefore, I'm very thankful for the new tennis complex, which will build team performance and recruitment, and benefit everyone on campus. To find out how you can help support this project, contact the Office of Development at 1-800-264-6014. Every little bit helps!

Kick after kick, Johnson boots his way to the top of Tiger football statistics

BY BRYAN F. BLAIR, Sports Information Director

He did not set any statistical goals when he arrived on the Campbellsville University campus in the fall of 2001, but Donnie Johnson, a senior from Winchester, Ky., became the All-Time Leading Scorer in Tiger football history Oct. 2, 2004 and also made his 130th Point After Touchdown kick.

Johnson, who has been the kicker/punter for the Tigers over the past three and a half seasons, now sits at the top of the Tiger scoring record book with 275 points in his career. He surpassed the old record of 213 points that was set in 2000 by James Kraus. Johnson also plays baseball for the Tigers in the spring.

"When I came here, I just wanted to be the best, period," said Johnson. "I didn't set out to break any records, but I did decide to always aim towards perfection even though I realized it was impossible to achieve."

Haywood Riner, CU's recruiting coordinator, remembers watching Johnson play at George Rogers Clark High School. "I don't think we had any idea that Donnie would turn out to be the caliber of kicker he's become," said Riner. "We knew he was a good, solid kicker/punter, but I don't think any of us realized the strength he would develop in his kicking."

Besides owning the All-Time Scoring record, Johnson also is at the top with PATs scored. He's kicked 152 PATs, breaking Kraus' old record of 129.

Johnson is also the record leader in Field Goals Scored with 41 and the all-time leader in PAT Kicking Percentage as he's hit on 152/161 attempts in his career for 94.4 percentage.

Johnson said his main goal is to help the Tigers keep winning. "I'd like to average 45-yards a punt, but other than that, the rest, as long as we keep winning, will come," he said.

He would like to continue his football career on the professional level next year. "I'm going to try to play on the next level, hopefully on Sundays, but if that doesn't work out I'll have a biology degree to fall back on" said Johnson.

His coaches think he has a solid chance at playing professionally. "The strength of his leg in kick-offs is as good as you'll find anywhere. He consistently kicks the ball into the end zone and on several occasions has even kicked the ball through the uprights on a kick-off," said Riner.

"He's got a great attitude in the fact that he's unselfish and intelligent. He'll sacrifice his own stats to punt the ball out of bounds inside the five-yard line to gain field position for our team," said Riner.

Through all of the publicity surrounding his record breaking collegiate career, plus the talk of a future in professional football, Johnson said he wouldn't be where he is without a great offense to have given him the opportunity. "I've also worked with the same snapper, Evan Merrick, a senior from Hickory, Ky., and holder, Brandon Holder, a senior from Westmoreland, Tenn., all four years, so I'm really comfortable when I'm out there," he said.

As for his collegiate playing days drawing to a close later this fall, Johnson said he has no regrets.

"I can't say enough about the football and baseball program, along with everything about Campbellsville University. It truly is one big family, and if I could do it again, I wouldn't change a thing," he said. 🍀

Tiger wrestling to make an impact during inaugural season

BY BRYAN F. BLAIR, Sports Information Director

It may not be a sport that many local fans are familiar with, but if Campbellsville University wrestling coach Franky James has his way, it won't take long for the excitement of collegiate wrestling to take hold in the central Kentucky area.

James is in the process of building a wrestling program from the ground up and is excited about the talented crop of recruits that he has on his roster this season.

"Honestly, I expect to have several wrestlers place in the open tournaments," said the first-year coach. "I think we'll be competitive as a team and we could have three or four guys emerge as national contenders," he said.

The Tigers will wrestle in ten weight classes ranging from 125 pounds up to 285 pounds. James has already brought in a talented group of athletes for the Tigers' first ever team. "We have a recruiting class that includes nine state champions and 16 state placers from nine different states," he said.

The schedule for a first-year program is ambitious, at best. "It's definitely not one you'd think about with a first-year program, but I think it was necessary to attract the kind of recruits that we did. We will compete some against NAIA schools, but mostly we'll see NCAA Division I, II and III teams this year," said James.

James has already set lofty goals as to what he wants the university's first-year wrestling team to accomplish. "We want to have the highest team grade point average on campus. We have several guys on the team who could win a national championship, and we hope to have the first national champion in wrestling in the school's history and the first wrestling All-American this year. We also are shooting to finish in the top 10 in the national rankings," said James.

"Hopefully our home matches will provide an exciting atmosphere for the home team and a heated, pressure packed, hostile environment for the opponent," said James. 🐾

The future is now as young but talented Tiger Basketball Team prepares for upcoming season

BY BRYAN F. BLAIR, Sports Information Director

Campbellsville University's men's basketball coach Keith Adkins is once again faced with the challenge he met during the 2003-04 season: blending ten newcomers and five returning players into a team that can compete for a 20-win season and a spot in the NAIA National Tournament.

"It's a young team, to say the least," said Adkins. "This will be the second year in a row that we've relied heavily on freshmen and we were able to win 18 games last year, and at times we had four true freshmen in the lineup," he said. However, this season Adkins is faced with finding a way to replace the one-two scoring punch of last year's seniors, Travis Wright (19.6 ppg) and Brandon Warner (17.0 ppg/10.2 rpg). Together those two provided nearly half of the Tigers 76.8 points per game last season.

Despite the losses, Adkins thinks that this year's team can get the job done.

In fact, Adkins was faced with a scrimmage Oct. 22 and couldn't decide who would start. "It's a good problem to have because for the first time in my five years here we have ten or 12 players, any of whom could lock down a starting spot," he said.

The nation's top teams again dot the Tiger schedule. "When you play in the Mid-South Conference, you play the top teams on a regular basis. Plus, we'll play Cumberland University twice and they'll be a top 5 team, Missouri Baptist will be a top 25 team and we'll play a couple of NCAA Division III teams at the College of Wooster Tournament, one of whom could be Wooster and they will likely be the pre-season number one ranked team in NCAA Division III," said Adkins.

As for the goals for the season, Adkins said it's simple. "We just want to keep getting better. We want to get better each game and improve on last year's record. We want to win 20 games and finish in the top three in the Mid-South Conference. I think if you do that, you're a lock for the NAIA National Tournament and that's what we want to do," said Adkins. 🐾

Remember When?

The winner of the Campbellsville University T-shirt, guessing the last "Guess Who?" correctly, was Eddie Howell of Elizabethtown, Ky. He guessed Brantley Parsley, who was a former librarian at CU, who was with a student, Dean Alan George, a 1981 graduate. Gary Allen also guessed correctly.

Others who guessed, some only partially correctly, were Dwayne Howell, Steve Lanham, Linda Hedgepath, Paula Settle, Donna Gilfedder Keller and Anna Mary Byrdwell. Thanks so much for playing the game!

In this issue, we have some pictures we've found from the 1970s. The decade of the 1970s was honored at Homecoming's Heritage Day Oct. 16. Here are some scenes from that era. If you know some of these people, let us know. 🐾

Guess Who?

The Guess Who? in this issue is a former CU staff member who was showing students how to load a film cassette in 1977. Can you guess who this is? If you are the first to guess correctly, we'll send you a Campbellsville University T-shirt. 🐾

Captain Jay Padgett awarded Bronze Star Medal

The Rev. Jay Padgett ('95) has received the Bronze Star Medal for meritorious service during Operation Iraqi Freedom.

He was presented the award at a service at Graefenburg Baptist Church Oct. 3, 2004 by Major Tom Roach and Major General Donald Storm, the adjutant general of Kentucky.

Padgett is the associate pastor of music and pastoral care at Graefenburg Baptist Church, located in eastern Shelby County. He has served the church five years and has been a member of the Kentucky Army National Guard 21 years, since he was 19.

After college and seminary he became a chaplain, and now holds the rank of captain. He was the first Kentucky Army National Guard Chaplain to go to Iraq. A part of the citation said the following:

"Chaplain Padgett is a dynamic leader who took control of a non-existent program and quickly developed an effective ministry team in support of Iraqi Freedom. He is a pioneer who established milestones (as chaplain to the 650 soldiers of Iowa's 234th Signal Battalion), including officiating at three weddings and 24 baptisms.

Chaplain Padgett initiated and executed a comprehensive multi-city humanitarian outreach program comparable to those developed by larger teams at higher echelons. He energized the Family Readiness Group, receiving over 500 boxes of clothes and toys from people in the U.S.

He coordinated with DIVARTY (Division Artillery) for $4,785 for stoves and water heaters, among other items, to be delivered to Baghdad's Children's Home Orphanage. He also personally supervised multiple deliveries to elementary schools in Baghdad and Mosul.

As the keystone of battalion morale, Padgett organized three variety shows to increase morale, including musical events for other battalions. He hosted a 5K Chaplain's Fun Run. He included families at home by preparing weekly devotional newsletters to the Family Readiness Group.

Chaplain Padgett identified the need to increase soldier knowledge of the combat theater and regional culture. He developed and presented briefings to augment standard Army information received by the troops. Subjects such as Iraq in the Bible, Law of War, Introduction to Islam and Ramadan resulted in greater soldier appreciation for Iraqi citizens, as well as providing a better understanding of the soldiers' own sacrifice and willingness to help.

The church and our nation are proud of people like this."

Padgett lives in Frankfort with his wife, Carrie, and children, Meagan and Aaron. He can be reached via e-mail at jay@gbcfamily.com. ✨

Campbellsville University Chorale to visit Europe in May 2005

BY JESSICA SMITH, Student News Writer

Prague, Salzburg, Vienna...for most people the thought of visiting these cities is just a dream, but for 40 Campbellsville University Chorale members, that dream is slowly becoming a reality.

Dr. Frieda Gebert, director of the chorale and associate professor of music (vocal/choral), said Campbellsville University's School of Music has been known for offering unique opportunities to its students by touring around the country and around the world.

However, she said, because of recent world events, it has been six years since the Campbellsville University Chorale last toured Europe. "The opportunity for these students to be able to once again return is a unique one," she said.

allowing Campbellsville University to serve as a regional resource center for over 3,000 rural elementary and secondary students in Kentucky," Zawacki said.

Dr. Frank Cheatham, vice president for academics, thanked Toyota for their support. "The Toyota USA Foundation increases the national recognition of our Science Connections Initiative and serves as a catalyst for other national foundations," Cheatham said.

Dr. Brent Summers, chair of the Division of Natural Science at CU, said the Science Connections Initiative wants to leave teachers with five concepts after their experience at Clay Hill. He said the teachers receive more knowledge of the physical and biological earth; learn new ideas to take to the classroom; have resources, such as field guides, soil and water test kits, etc., to take to use in their classrooms; work with contacts at sources such as the Division of Forestry, the Nature Conservatory and Fish and Wildlife and learn self-confidence to do the science experiments with their students.

Dr. Alan Medders, vice president for development, and others, thanked Toyota for their generous grant but also mentioned those who first shared and grew the dream of Clay Hill including George Howell and Ted White, who made the original gift of Clay Hill in 1996.

The Clay Hill Memorial Forest has evolved into a regional education center. The 135-acre preserve consists of the Joan White Howell Environmental Center, the Joan White Howell Nature Preserve and the Dr. James Sanders White Managed Woodlands. 🍁

Carter, and his wife, June. Key would always give her testimony in Morning Watch, Noonday Prayer Meeting or Evening Vespers. She always said, according to Lawson, "I must knock the devil off my lap and witness for my Jesus." She also told stories about the Carter's son, John Mark, who is now a professor at CU. Dr. John Mark (Doc) Carter joined those attending the breakfast and luncheon.

"It was the best Homecoming I have ever had - covering all four institutions at which I have had the privilege to teach," Carter said. "It was an honor to participate with the alumni and to hear and share the great memories of my childhood," he said. 🍁
