A word from the president...

“...many facility changes are taking place on campus. As students return for fall 2005, they will find several new buildings and facilities complete and ready for service.”

DR. MICHAEL V. CARTER
PRESIDENT

OCTOBER 2005

Dear alumni and friends,

Campbellsville University continues to experience tremendous growth and excitement on campus. As we say “goodbye and congratulations” to a record graduating senior class of 365, we now anticipate the new freshmen coming to campus. Students will arrive to find an ever-transforming campus. These transformations have been made possible through the generosity of alumni, friends, foundations and businesses assisting the university with new and renovated facilities and academic programs. Thank you for your belief and support of CU and Christian higher education.

We continue to make improvements in order to build on the great traditions of Campbellsville University. I would like to share some of the significant changes that are impacting the student academic experience in the fall 2005 semester:

- CU’s accreditation has been reaffirmed by the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools (SACS).
- The School of Nursing celebrated its groundbreaking June 10, and recruitment continues for the new nursing program that is anticipated to begin spring 2006.
- FIRST CLASS, a new program for incoming freshmen, will debut during the 2005-2006 academic year. The program is designed to embrace the Christian liberal arts status of CU while developing the virtues of Christian character, leadership and financial stewardship.
- The graduate degree in counseling was approved for fall 2005 enrollment. The program offers three tracks: generalist, marriage and family, and clinical counseling.
- A degree completion program in criminal justice has begun in partnership with Somerset Community College in Somerset, Ky. Students with an associate’s degree will have opportunity to earn a bachelor’s degree in criminal justice.
- Several very talented new faculty and staff joined CU this fall.

Along with the academic improvements, many facility changes are taking place on campus. As students returned for fall 2005, they found several new buildings and facilities complete and ready for service.

- The opening of the E. Bruce Heilman Student Complex, which houses the Winters Dining Hall and the Davenport Student Commons, brings many benefits to the campus community. The Davenport Student Commons will offer a student lounge with Internet access, a Starbucks® coffee kiosk, the WHI (Wholesale Hardwood Interiors) Hardwood Café offering extended hours of operation for students, faculty, staff, alumni and the public to enjoy, a new post office, and the Barnes & Noble Campbellsville University Bookstore. The Winters Dining Hall will include a large dining area with menus displayed on monitors throughout the student complex. There is also a presidential dining room and rooms that can be partitioned for separate events.
- The new Tennis Complex features six courts for the tennis teams, students and the public to enjoy.
- A new addition to the women’s Residence Village offers an additional 42 beds.
- A new classroom facility for The Carver School of Social Work will be completed this fall.
- A new outdoor classroom/pavilion at the Clay Hill Memorial Forest is now ready for use.

I personally invite you to visit and experience the transforming campus. Even now, we are planning special events to commemorate the 100th anniversary of Campbellsville University. Please continue to keep Campbellsville University in your prayers as we come closer to our Centennial celebration and as we strive to pursue our goal of producing strong, Christian servant leaders.

Most cordially,

Michael V. Carter

CU graduates largest class in history

Commencement is always a time of both happiness and sadness. Graduates move on to new endeavors--new jobs, new friends and colleagues, continuing education and starting their families. The excitement and smiles on all the faces on graduation day are always remembered in the hearts of Campbellsville University's graduates.

Join us as we celebrate the joy of commencement with the class of 2005!

BY SARAH MCKINLEY, Student News Writer

A record-breaking 365 graduates received degrees during the May 7 commencement exercises at Campbellsville University, making the Class of 2005 the largest in CU's history.

The class included six students who maintained a perfect 4.0 grade point average: Laura Beth Bland Gupton of Campbellsville, Ky.; Corey Scott Bonds of Scottsville, Ky.; Samuel J. Fletcher of Columbia, Ky.; James Patrick Griffith of Lancing, Tenn.; Lee Courtney Houston of Mayfield, Ky.; and Miranda Michelle Ray of Somerset, Ky.

Dr. Leslie Hollon, CU trustee and pastor of St. Matthews Baptist Church in Louisville, reminded graduates, "You were made in God's image. God wants you to understand yourself and the world in which you live."

Hollon's commencement address opened with a quote from legendary missionary, scholar and philanthropist Albert Schweitzer, "I don't know what your destiny will be, but one thing I know, the only ones among you who will be really happy are those who have sought and found how to serve."

The university recognized Beulah Campbell of Campbellsville as one who has met Schweitzer's challenge and found how to serve. CU President Michael V. Carter presented the honorary doctor of public service degree to Campbell. "She is one of those individuals who has spent a lifetime pursuing excellence," said Carter.

A native of Campbellsville, Campbell attended Campbellsville University (College) in 1935-1936, completing her bachelor of arts and master of arts degrees at Western Kentucky State Teachers College. She completed additional studies at Colorado State University, George Peabody College and Teachers College of Columbia University.

Degrees awarded during CU's commencement included: associate of science, 24; bachelor of arts, 12; bachelor of music, nine; bachelor of science, 146; bachelor of science in business administration, 21; bachelor of social work, 19; master of arts in education (curriculum and instruction), two; master of arts in music, seven; master of arts in special education (learning and behavior disorders), 89; master of arts in social science, four; master of business administration, 24; and master of theology, five. 🍀

Louisville Education Center offers education for busy adults

“With more adults going back to school than ever before, the opportunities are great for the Louisville Center.”

JIM WOOLUMS
LOUISVILLE EDUCATION CENTER

BY JOAN C. MCKINNEY, Editor

In a crowded education market, Campbellsville University's Louisville Education Center is offering programs that best fit its audiences, according to Jim Woolums, center director.

The Louisville Education Center (LEC) has been offering Christian higher education since July 2003. There are now 82 full-time students enrolled who can receive an associate's degree in business or general studies, a bachelor of science degree in pastoral ministries or organizational management and a master's degree in theology. LEC is an extension of CU's main campus and is thus fully accredited under the CU umbrella by the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools (SACS).

Woolums said the Louisville market was underserved educationally for a number of years, but now a number of schools inside and outside the state have established centers, so CU must offer strategic programs to ensure long-term success.

“With more adults going back to school than ever before, the opportunities are great for the Louisville Center,” said Woolums. “There are more companies who are offering tuition reimbursement to their employees, which is a huge benefit in today's marketplace.”

Woolums said the student body at the Louisville Center is “extremely diverse,” ranging in age from 21 to 55, and “students in many phases of life are reaching their goals by earning a degree.” There are single students as well as single and married parents. Most students work full-time jobs in addition to completing their education. The center is open to any student who holds a high school diploma or who has earned their General Educational Development (GED) and has two years or more of significant full-time work experience beyond high school.

All of the programs at the Louisville Education Center are offered in an accelerated format. Students attend class from 6 p.m. to 10 p.m. Monday-Thursday and on weekends and generally take only one class at a time. Class sizes are small with students forming initial “cohort groups” that remain intact from the beginning to the end of the degree program. Students can move progressively through the program, taking a prescribed sequence of courses that can lead to the completion of a degree in as little as 18 months. A scholarship fund has been started specifically for Louisville Education Center students.

Woolums said students “now have the opportunity to better themselves and their own marketability through a quality program that is innovative, flexible, convenient and affordable.”

The Louisville Center graduated its first degree recipients in May with one person receiving a master's degree and two earning associate's degrees.

“Campbellsville University's Louisville Education Center provides adult learners with degree programs that are effective, dynamic and practical,” Woolums said. And, he said, faculty are “well-respected scholars who bring to the classroom outstanding academic credentials with professional expertise.”

“We want an epic learning environment for adult students,” Woolums said. “We want an environment that engages them, challenges them and motivates them to be great leaders in their work-life. We also want to teach them to put Christ in the center of everything we teach and in the way we teach so as to influence students to grow in their personal relationship to Christ and become the leaders God has purposed for them to be in their workplaces (church, school, community, business, etc.).”

Woolums said the Louisville area boasts many fantastic attractions like Kentucky Kingdom, the RiverBats (Reds' AAA affiliate), arena football (Louisville Fire), Churchill Downs and one of the largest parks systems in the region.

He said students may apply online at www.campbellsville.edu or call the Louisville Education Center at (502) 753-0264 or (800) 735-0610 to receive an admissions packet. 🍁

CU breaks ground for School of Nursing

BY ANNE K. GALITO, Assistant Editor

Campbellsville University broke ground June 10 for its School of Nursing, to be located on North Columbia Avenue in Campbellsville. During the ceremony, CU President Michael V. Carter was presented a $200,000 check from Jane Wheatley, chief executive officer of Taylor Regional Hospital. Wheatley said the hospital is excited about partnering with the university in the program. The donation will fund nursing scholarships.

The 7,160 square-foot nursing facility, which should be completed in the fall, will house classrooms, a lab and offices. Jo Ann Wever, a registered nurse and former U.S. Army Reserve colonel, has been named the first dean of the School of Nursing. Wever has served as an associate professor at the University of Kentucky's College of Nursing and a coordinator of the Regional Perinatal Medicine Program at UK's College of Medicine. While in the Army Reserves, she served as chief nurse of two medical units.

"One of my real dreams for Campbellsville University remains the day when we graduate our first nursing student," said Carter. The Kentucky Board of Nursing officially approved the program June 16. The school's anticipated start date is January 2006.

The United States House of Representatives Appropriations Subcommittee on Labor, Health and Human Services, and Education authorized a $250,000 appropriation for the nursing program, according to U.S. Representative Ron Lewis. This will be combined with university resources to purchase equipment for the new School of Nursing facility. Representative Lewis was instrumental in securing the earmark.

"These funds will assist in meeting a statewide critical need for nurses and continue Campbellsville University's exemplary community partnership to stimulate the local economy and boost job creation," said Lewis.

The nursing program also received a $300,000 appropriation for an associate's degree in nursing as a result of the federal Omnibus Appropriations. U.S. Sen. Jim Bunning (R-Ky.) was the responsible sponsor of the funding. These funds are being used to cover startup expenses for the nursing program. Additionally, the Van Lunen Foundation granted $750,000 to fund the construction of the school over the next three years.

The School of Nursing will offer an associate's degree in nursing which will take four full-time semesters to complete. Graduates from the program will be eligible to take the NCLEX exam, formerly known as the State Board exam, to become licensed as a registered nurse.

CU presents third Algernon Sydney Sullivan Awards

BY JOAN C. MCKINNEY, Editor

“We annually recognize one graduating senior and one individual from our community who exemplify the characteristics of this prestigious award.”

DR. MICHAEL V. CARTER
PRESIDENT
CAMPBELLVILLE UNIVERSITY

CU President Michael V. Carter presented the university's third Algernon Sydney Sullivan Award to Dr. J. Chester Badgett of Campbellsville, former pastor of Campbellsville Baptist Church, and Lori Brook Rousey of Lancaster, Ky., a senior who graduated magna cum laude.

Carter said the two individuals possess the “high ideals and Christian example of Algernon Sydney Sullivan” for whom the award is named. In the words of a friend, Sullivan “reached out both hands in constant helpfulness to others.”

“Campbellsville University is one of approximately 50 colleges and universities in the south that are approved by the Sullivan Foundation to present these awards,” said Carter. “We annually recognize one graduating senior and one individual from our community who exemplify the characteristics of this prestigious award.”

Each recipient was presented with special gifts provided by the Sullivan Foundation, including a medallion and a framed certificate.

Badgett dedicated himself to the Christian pastoral ministry and was pastor of Campbellsville Baptist Church for more than 30 years. Carter said, “Dr. Badgett is one of those rare individuals who has spent his entire life in service to his Lord and his family, to his church and community, and to the Great Commission of our Lord Jesus Christ.”

Badgett, who recently celebrated his 90th birthday, remains active in the community. He has belonged to the Kiwanis Club for over 37 years, is a long-time member of the Taylor County Ministerial Association and a member of the Taylor County Baptist Association Executive Board. He formerly served as president of the Southern Baptist Foreign Mission Board and president of the Kentucky Baptist Convention.

A strong supporter of Campbellsville University, Badgett served on the Board of Trustees over a 42-year period. His love and passion for CU is further shown by his work over the past three years as the primary author of The History of Campbellsville University - 1906 - 2006 that is to be published in the fall of 2005 as part of the institution's centennial celebration in 2006-07. He is also the author of A Two Hundred Year History of Campbellsville Baptist Church published in 1991.

Badgett has been honored by the Kentucky Baptist Convention for his historic support of the Cooperative Program and is known for his strong and tireless advocacy of missions work. “Even today at age 90, Badgett is always a step ahead of most other people in terms of his energy level, his vision and his quest for excellence,” said Carter.

Rousey graduated in May with a degree in math with a secondary teaching certification. During her four years at CU, Rousey was a leader in the Fellowship of Christian Athletes and worked closely with the local Taylor County High School FCA group. She participated in three mission trips during her years at CU, including two trips to Panama City, Fla. and one trip to Arlington, Texas. This summer Rousey went to Brazil to evangelize and do construction work.

While at CU, Rousey was captain of the Lady Tigers Golf Team and was named to the Academic All-Conference team. She was also a Student Ambassador. The daughter of James and Debbie Rousey and Nancy Rousey, she is now teaching math at her alma mater, Garrard County High School. 🍀

Clay Hill hosts 2005 Outdoor Classroom Institute

BY ANNE K. GALITO, Assistant Editor

Campbellsville University's fourth annual Outdoor Classroom Institute Science Connections Initiative was held at Clay Hill Memorial Forest (CHMF) and Joan White Howell Environmental Education Center during three week-long teacher academy sessions this summer.

Eighty-five teachers from 17 Kentucky counties participated in this year's OCI. The teachers were divided into three groups each week and participated in studies such as: forest biodiversity, fragmentation, gap analysis, water chemistry and analysis, animal behavior and forensic science. The event was designed to "provide environmental inquiry and exploration" for the teachers, said Teresa Spurling, assistant professor of education.

The guest presenter each of the three weeks was Vanessa Kanaan, a 2002 CU graduate and a current Purdue University graduate student studying animal behavior. Other supporters during the program were Dr. Richard Kessler of The Nature Conservancy; Belinda Smith, Division of Forestry; and Kathy Hodges, Division of Soil Conservation. The teacher academies were funded by the Toyota USA Foundation, the Kentucky Department of Education, the Dow Corning Foundation and CBRL Group Foundation.

Clay Hill director and professor of biology Gordon Weddle said, "Clay Hill Memorial Forest is committed to environmental education at all levels. The relationships forged during these summer workshops will pay educational dividends by enhancing environmental education across Kentucky." 🍁

CU offers master of science in counseling degree

BY JOAN C. MCKINNEY, Editor

Campbellsville University has received approval from the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools (SACS) for a new master of science in counseling degree program, according to Dr. Michael V. Carter, president. The program, which begins fall 2005, offers three concentration areas, including generalist counseling, marriage and family counseling and clinical counseling.

The master of science in counseling (MSC) program is under the direction of the Carver School of Social Work and Dr. Darlene Eastridge, professor of social work and director of the master's program as well as the baccalaureate social work program.

The master of science in counseling offers a foundation of counseling coursework for human and social service professionals who want or need advanced academic preparation. The generalist counseling degree is a 36 credit-hour program which is appealing to human service professionals and Christian studies, psychology, sociology, social science and social work students who have an interest in attaining a master's degree but are not interested in seeking the credentials required for licensure in the state of Kentucky.

In contrast, the marriage and family counseling and the clinical counseling tracks provide coursework suggested by the Kentucky Boards of Licensure. The marriage and family concentration is a 42 credit-hour program that is designed to prepare graduates with the knowledge and skills to counsel individuals, couples and families. The 60 credit-hour clinical counseling track is open to students interested in mental health and clinical counseling and is the most arduous of the two cognate areas offered. The program fulfills a need for mental health professionals interested in either private or government practice. The marriage and family and the clinical counseling tracks are built upon the 21 credit-hour generalist core and provide students an option to gain additional knowledge and skills in select areas of counseling.

In addition to its new program, the Carver School of Social Work also has a new home on Meader Street. The new classroom facility will accommodate both graduate counseling and undergraduate social work.

Applications for the new master of science in counseling degree program are now being accepted. Contact Karla Deaton, coordinator for graduate and extended programs in the Office of Admissions, at (270) 789-5078 or krdeaton@campbellsville.edu. 🍁

Covenant - Planned gifts have made difference for Centennial Campaign and Kresge Challenge

Dr. Alan Medders

A Financial Planning Guide for Alumni and Friends of Campbellsville University

A Supplement to the Campbellsvillian

The Covenant Society is a recognition society for those who make Campbellsville University a part of their estate plan by including the university in their wills, making the university a beneficiary of insurance policies in which ownership has been assigned to the university, or by participating in any of the various life-income plans Campbellsville University has available. Today, over 200 alumni and friends are members of the Covenant Society. If the university is part of your estate plan, let us know!

BY ALAN G. MEDDERS, Vice President for Development

In the January 2005 Covenant, I announced the public phase of the Campbellsville University Centennial Campaign to secure $35 million and the Kresge Challenge of $6.7 million. During the past year, individuals have made deferred gifts to the University of over $500,000. These commitments have been critical in moving CU toward its campaign and Kresge goals. There are several ways individuals can help us reach those goals. Two of those options are a Charitable Gift Annuity and Remainder Interest in a Home.

A Charitable Gift Annuity

A charitable gift annuity is a contract between you and Campbellsville University. You make a gift of cash or securities in exchange for a guaranteed, fixed income each year for the rest of your life.

A gift annuity with CU may provide five benefits:

- You can make a significant impact on the future of Campbellsville University.
- You may receive a charitable income tax deduction.
- You receive guaranteed income payments for life.
- You receive tax-free income.
- You receive capital gains tax savings.

A Remainder Interest In A Home

You can make a gift of your residence, vacation home or farm today while retaining the use of the property as long as you live.

Benefits of a Gift of the Remainder Interest in Your Home include:

- You can make a significant impact on the future of CU.
- You receive an immediate income tax deduction for the present value of the remainder interest in your home.
- You have an asset removed from your taxable estate.
- You continue to live in your home, take care of it, pay taxes and even receive any income it generates.

Another unique and extremely attractive consideration is combining the two options previously outlined.

Charitable Gift Annuity With A Remainder Interest In A Home

Instead of using cash or security as the gift, the donor utilizes his or her home. At that point many of the benefits are as follows:

- You can make a significant impact on the future of Campbellsville University.
- You receive an immediate income tax deduction for the present value of the remainder interest in your home.
- You receive guaranteed income payments for life.
- You receive tax-free portion on the income.
- You have an asset removed from your taxable estate.
- You continue to live in your home, take care of it, pay taxes and even receive any income it generates.

At the annuitant's death, the property is sold and the proceeds from the sale of the home provide funds for the programs, endowments or capital projects the donor's requested.

Lenora Carter of Stanford, Ky., widow of former University President Dr. John M. Carter (1948-1968), has recently used this giving option to establish the Lenora Carter Endowed Scholarship that will benefit students from Lincoln and contiguous counties.

"It is an honor to be able to make such a meaningful commitment to the young people of my community and the university that my husband loved and served for many years," Carter said.

As you can see, there are many ways to accomplish your goals and substantially benefit Campbellsville University, its Centennial Campaign and its Kresge Challenge. If you would like more information about gift opportunities, as well as other possibilities, contact me toll free at 1-800-264-6014 or e-mail development@campbellsville.edu.

There is no obligation, of course, and all inquiries are kept strictly confidential.

CU alumnus receives honorary doctorate at commencement ceremony

BY ANNE K. GALITO, Assistant Editor

Beulah Campbell, a Campbellsville College alumnus, was honored during CU's commencement ceremony May 7 with the highest honor any higher education institution can present, an honorary doctorate. The doctorate was given by the CU Board of Trustees and Dr. Michael V. Carter, president.

"It is indeed an honor to present this honorary doctorate of public service to a lady who has spent her entire adult life in the important area of children's literature," Carter said. "She is one of those rare individuals who has spent a lifetime pursuing excellence in all that she has done, and she has excelled in her chosen area."

Campbell graduated from Campbellsville College in 1936 with an associate of arts degree in education. She then received both her bachelor of arts degree in 1941 and her master of arts degree in 1944 from Western Kentucky State Teachers College. She also studied at Colorado State College, George Peabody College and Teachers College of Columbia University.

"I always wanted to be a teacher even as a child," Campbell said, "and I always loved books."

There were only four campus buildings and 16 courses offered when Campbell attended Campbellsville College. Even so, she felt fortunate. "My parents had worked very hard to send me. I was lucky that Campbellsville College was so close to home; I wouldn't have been able to go anywhere else," said Campbell, whose ancestors settled the town of Campbellsville. When she completed her associate's degree after three semesters and graduated at the age of 19, she was excited. "The day I graduated I knew that I had a job. I had never earned a cent in my life until then and I started out earning $60 a month as a teacher," she said.

Campbell served as a teacher in a one-room school in Taylor County, a fifth grade teacher in Clinton, Tenn., a third grade demonstration teacher at Appalachian State Teachers College, assistant professor of elementary education at Westminster College in New Wilmington, Penn. and a professor of elementary education at Appalachian State University in Boone, N.C. During her career, Campbell has earned national recognition for conducting children's literature conferences, workshops and festivals; for conducting study tours in children's literature for teachers and librarians in the United States, England, Scotland, Ireland, Norway, Sweden and Denmark; for collecting many original illustrations for the Appalachian Cultural Museums; and for donating numerous books to Campbellsville University's Montgomery Library.

Campbell's children's book collection includes autographed copies of such books as "Amos Fortune, Free Man" by Elizabeth Yates, "Hans Christian Andersen: The Complete Tales and Stories" translated from Danish by Erik Christian Haugaard, and "Dear Ellen Bee: A Civil War Scrapbook of Two Union Spies" by Mary E. Lyons (who is one of Campbell's former students) and Muriel M. Branch.

"Children's literature was always my favorite because of a class I had taken in it at Campbellsville," she said. "My teacher, Miss Kitty Irvin, was wonderful."

In 1966, Rebecca Caudill, a Kentucky author, dedicated one of her books, "A Pocket Full of Cricket," to Campbell. This book was illustrated by Evelyn Ness and won a Caldecott award.

Campbell has a dream for Campbellsville University. She hopes that CU will "develop a new School of Education with a special room for children's literature." She also hopes for a specialized program for teachers and librarians in writing and illustrating books for children.

"I think every person who has gone to Campbellsville should contribute," Campbell said. "At this time in my life it gives me great pleasure to make a donation to Campbellsville University. You're helping to educate the future and to produce great teachers, nurses, ministers...there's no end. Others can help make my dream come true by donating or contributing to Campbellsville University." ❀

BY CASIE ANDERSON, Student News Writer

Travis Thomas and Miranda Ray were named Mr. and Miss Campbellsville during Honors and Awards Day at Campbellsville Baptist Church. The titles are the result of a faculty and staff vote to select the graduating seniors who best exemplify the typical CU student based on scholarship, leadership, character, and potential for success.

A math education major from Somerset, Ky., Ray was a member of the Lady Tiger Basketball team and an NAIA Academic All American, a Mid-South Conference Scholar/Athlete and a CU representative to the NAIA Champions of Character. Despite her demanding sports schedule, she took time to read to elementary school children. She was a member of Alpha Chi Honor Society. She is the daughter of Robert and Donna Ray.

Thomas was an accounting major from Elizabethtown, Ky. As Student Government President, he helped implement the Book Exchange and passed many proposals to better the campus. He collected food for the food pantry and donations for Big Brothers and Big Sisters. Thomas is the son of Steve Thomas and Julia Thomas. ➤

Campbellsville University establishes Character, Leadership and Stewardship Studies

BY JOAN C. MCKINNEY, Editor

Incoming CU freshmen will engage in a new program titled FIRST CLASS. FIRST CLASS is a semester-long program that embraces the Christian liberal arts status of CU while developing the virtues of character, leadership and financial stewardship.

Dr. G. Ted Taylor, professor of Christian studies at CU, is a key facilitator in the new program. "The core values of the university stress (1.) Academic excellence, (2.) An environment conducive for student success, (3.) Effective stewardship and (4.) A caring, Christ-centered community of learners," Taylor said. "The FIRST CLASS program encompasses all of these values. We want our students to receive a specialized curriculum and organized servant leadership experiences that will enhance the individual student for a life of Christian ministry and leadership."

"The mission of FIRST CLASS is to prepare students for a life of Christian character development, servant leadership and biblical stewardship as they engage the 21st century for Christ," said CU President Michael V. Carter. "I can think of no other time in our history when this new initiative was needed more."

FIRST CLASS meets once per week in large groups and once per week in small groups. Topics of discussion will center on respect, responsibility, integrity, self-discipline, service, influence, priorities, navigation, sacrifice, reproduction, God's and our part in stewardship, debt/giving and budgeting. Each student must also perform at least three hours of community service during the semester. ➤

Campbellsville University recognizes student and staff servant leaders

BY JESSICA COLLIER, Student News Writer

Campbellsville University recognized two students and two staff members at its Annual Servant Leadership Awards Luncheon. CU is striving to be a servant leader university, and a selection committee was formed to choose honorees who have exhibited the highest form of leadership and who are continuing to serve others in Christ's name.

CU President Michael V. Carter recognized the 2005 student Servant Leadership award winners, Bethany Parrott from Versailles, Ky., and Nathan Gower from Henderson, Ky. Both students received $250 for themselves and another $250 for a charity of their choice. Also recognized were Dr. Mary Wilgus, dean of the College of Arts and Sciences and professor of history, and Marion Hall, director of purchasing and special projects.

While at CU, Parrott said she has been able to grow as a leader and realize her passion for Christ, especially in the mission field. She donated a portion of her award money to the International Mission Board for orphans in India, where she spent last summer.

Gower has learned that the Lord often wants to use him in unexpected ways and has given him the ability to help and serve others. Gower donated a portion of his award to the charitable organization "Samaritan's Purse."

Wilgus was honored for her tremendous outreach to CU students while Hall was recognized for his honesty, integrity and ability to put the students' needs before his own. ➤

Homecoming 2005

BY ANNE K. GALITO, Assistant Editor

"Campbellsville University, Ahead of Her Time!" That's the theme for Homecoming 2005, which promises to be one of the best! The Homecoming Banquet has returned on Friday night, and hot air balloon rides will be available on Saturday. Watch as new head coach Jim Deaton's Fighting Tigers take on Cumberland University.

Another wonderful opportunity will be seeing the new E. Bruce Heilman Student Complex, including the Winters Dining Hall and the Davenport Student Commons. While some plans are still being finalized, to follow is a schedule of many of the traditional favorite activities with a few new twists.

For additional information, contact the Office of Development by calling 800.264.6014 ext. 5211 or by e-mailing development@campbellsville.edu. The online schedule for Homecoming 2005 will be updated as additional activities and events are finalized; so remember to check our website at www.campbellsville.edu as you make your Homecoming plans.

Donna Wise recognized as Distinguished EKV alumnae

Family and friends were on hand at Eastern Kentucky University recently as Donna Wise, women's basketball coach at Campbellsville University since 1976, was one of seven recognized as Distinguished Alumni.

For 30 years, Wise has parlayed the education and leadership skills honed at EKV into an NAIA Hall of Fame career. She has been named NAIA Mid-South Coach of the Year 11 times and ranks 12th in wins nationally among all NAIA active women's basketball coaches.

Wise, who received her bachelor's degree from EKV in 1972 and master's in 1973, credits her experience at Eastern for setting her on a successful career path. "The health and physical education department at EKV was nationally recognized. My teachers prepared, motivated and challenged me to reach my potential," she said.

Wise's teams have won 16 NAIA conference or regional championships and have made 16 NAIA national tournament appearances, including 15 in the last 16 years and five in the Elite Eight.

A graduate of Campbellsville High School, Wise has won numerous chamber and civic awards over the years. She is

Campbellsville University names Jim Deaton as head football coach

BY BRYAN BLAIR, Sports Information Director

A familiar face is returning to lead Fighting Tiger Football. Jim Deaton, who was director of athletics at CU in 2000, has been named head football coach by CU President Michael V. Carter.

"Jim Deaton's leadership skills and coaching experience will certainly benefit CU's football program," said Carter. "He is a man of strong Christian faith and will set the example expected by all who know Tiger Football."

Deaton has been assistant football coach at Carson-Newman College in Jefferson City, Tenn. for 24 seasons. He was part of five NAIA National Championships before the school's move to NCAA Division II. During his career with the Eagles, he coached 21 NAIA and NCAA playoff teams combined. Deaton served as defensive coordinator and produced 51 All-Conference and 14 All-American players. Deaton played on Carson-Newman's 1972 National Championship team.

"Jim Deaton brings a wealth of football knowledge and experience to CU," said Rusty Hollingsworth, CU director of athletics. "We are fortunate to have a man of his character, leadership ability, and commitment to excellence that is the tradition of Tiger Football."

Deaton will serve as the third head coach in the 16-year history of Tiger Football, and he inherits a team that is coming off a 6-5 season. "We plan on fielding a team that plays with great effort and intensity, and is fundamentally sound. We want to always be on the attack in all phases of the game," said Deaton.

Deaton believes that recruiting is the lifeline of any program. "We want to identify and recruit the best student-athlete possible. All coaches must be actively involved in the recruiting process," he said. "Expanding and intensifying our efforts will be a priority." 🍀

"We are fortunate to have a man of his character, leadership ability, and commitment to excellence that is the tradition of Tiger Football."

Head football coach likes what he sees

BY BRYAN BLAIR, Sports Information Director

CU football coach Jim Deaton is excited about what he's seen of the Tigers so far. "I think we have the makings of a strong team as we have a good level of intensity, focus and competitiveness," he said.

One of Deaton's main concerns in the 2005 season is youth. "We have some solid returning players coming back at key positions, but we also have several new players who may get the opportunity to make early contributions," said Deaton.

As for strengths, Deaton said he saw many in the spring practice season. "From the quarterback position we exhibited good leadership skills and decision-making processes. I think our offensive backs are very talented, and we do have quite a bit of depth and good speed. Our receivers and defensive backs have also had strong spring seasons," he said. Deaton said the offensive and defensive line also showed a great effort in spring practice. "Even though we were a bit short in numbers, our defensive and offensive linemen performed well and enabled us to have a productive spring practice," he said. Deaton said that the linebackers also made great strides in spring practice in picking up the new defensive schemes. 🍀

“I’m really excited about the upcoming season. We only graduated one senior...”

RANDY LeBLEU

Randy LeBleu named new CU volleyball coach

BY BRYAN BLAIR, Sports Information Director

The CU Volleyball team has a new leader on the bench as Randy LeBleu takes over as head coach following the resignation of Billy Gregory.

LeBleu, who served as an assistant coach for the team last season, is also an assistant coach of the Tiger baseball team and has solid coaching and playing experiences on the volleyball court.

“I’m excited to have had the opportunity to work with Coach Gregory, and that experience has made me very dedicated to carrying on the tradition he has started. I certainly can’t replace Coach Gregory, but I do hope to carry on the legacy he’s left in the program,” said LeBleu.

Gregory, who was 58-25 as head coach of the Lady Tiger volleyball team over the past two seasons, said the time was right for the change. “The decision for me to leave was not an easy one, but it was one that I felt would benefit me personally and the program as well with the hire of Coach LeBleu as a full-time coach. He will be able to devote the time necessary to get our program to the next level,” said Gregory. Gregory said he will continue to stay involved with the program at the request of university administration and LeBleu as an assistant/consultant to the team.

LeBleu was previously assistant volleyball coach at Lake Region Junior College in North Dakota and played high school volleyball as well as three years of club volleyball in Canada. He is a Winnipeg, Canada, native.

“I’m really excited about the upcoming season,” said LeBleu. “We only graduated one senior and for the most part our core is returning. We’ve added six solid freshmen, and I think we’ll be very competitive once again in the Mid-South Conference and NAIA Region XI.”

Former Lady Tiger Tennis standout becomes new women’s tennis coach

BY BRYAN BLAIR, Sports Information Director

Shannon Thomas has been named CU women’s tennis coach and director of the Tuggle-Morris Wellness Center.

Thomas graduated from CU in 2002 and earned a master’s degree in social science from the institution in 2005. While at Campbellsville, she was a member of the Lady Tiger tennis team for four years, and during her last two seasons was the #1 seed and team captain. During her freshman season, the Lady Tigers received their first-ever national ranking and an at-large bid to compete in the NAIA National Tournament. Thomas was also an NAIA All-American Scholar Athlete and Mid-South Conference All-Academic team member.

“I am excited to be a part of the program and my main concentration will be recruiting and building a competitive team,” said Thomas. “I’m also excited about the new tennis courts on campus, and I think that’s an important step forward for our program in terms of recruiting and skill building.”

Wrestling recruiting class adds excitement

BY BRYAN BLAIR, Sports Information Director

After a successful inaugural season that saw the CU Wrestling program go 9-5 in dual meets, several individual wrestlers place in prestigious tournaments, including the NAIA National meet, and its first wrestling All-American, the excitement continues to build with coach Franky James announcing the 2005 recruiting class.

"We've been able to put together an incoming class of athletes that will add to the strength of our team," said James. "The success we had on the mat last season helped us recruit this caliber of wrestler and I'm certainly excited about what the season could hold," he said.

A breakdown of the Tiger recruits by weight class is as follows: 125# - Corey Striplin (Wheaton, Ill.);

133# - Jordan Lewis (Louisville, Ky.); 133#/141# - Andre Braima (Paducah, Ky.); 141# - Jairus Morton (Inez, Ky.); 149# - Zack Davis (Louisville, Ky.); 149#/157# - Anthony Palmer (LaGrange, Ga.); 157# - James Linker (Louisville, Ky.); 165#/174# - David Clemens (Dayton, Ohio); 165#/174# - John Lowery (Virginia Military Institute); 165#/174# - Ben Ellard (Tecumseh, Okla.); 165#-174# - Michael Wade (Buena Vista, Va.); 165#-174# - Paul Davis (Monticello, Ky.); 165-174# - Stanley Stone (Hebron, Ky.); 174#-184# - Bryan Borgman (Charlottesville, Ind.); 184#-197# - Glen Jackson (Chesapeake, Va.); and Heavyweight - Chad Wiggington (Jasper, Ga.). 🐾

Tiger baseball has one of its most successful seasons

BY BRYAN BLAIR, Sports Information Director

One of the most successful seasons in CU baseball history ended in Lebanon, Tenn., at the NAIA Region XI Tournament as the Tigers lost their second one-run decision in as many games. Campbellsville coach Beauford Sanders' team finished the season with a 41-15 record, just two wins shy of tying the all-time record for wins in a season. He was also named Mid-South Conference Coach of the Year.

Playing against #6 seed Cumberland College, the third-seeded Tigers found themselves down 2-0 after the top of the first inning in their last game of the season. However, CU was able to cut the lead in half with a run of their own in the bottom of the first. The Patriots extended their lead with two runs in the top of the fourth inning. Campbellsville scored two more runs in the bottom of the fifth, but it wasn't enough. Cumberland College scored their four runs on nine hits and had three errors. Campbellsville scored their three runs on eight hits and also had three errors.

Morgan Carlile took the loss for the Tigers after going just three innings and gave up four (earned) runs on seven hits and had a strikeout. 🍌

The Tigers' 2005 season was one of the most successful in team history with a 41-14 record. 🍌

CU softball finishes year one game short of NAIA World Series

BY BRYAN BLAIR, Sports Information Director

The CU Lady Tiger Softball Team ended the season in the NAIA Region XI Tournament Finals with a 3-1 loss to second seeded Union University (Tenn.) in eight innings. The game was the fifth in the regional tournament that saw the Lady Tigers, as the tournament's fifth seed, eliminate Martin Methodist, the number one seed, with two wins over the Lady Redhawks. Campbellsville also picked up a win over Freed-Hardeman in the tournament.

The loss in the tournament finals capped a season that saw the Lady Tigers rebound from an 0-8 start to give the school its best finish ever, 33-17. The Lady Tigers were the regular season champions in the Mid-South Conference.

Four CU softball players were named to the NAIA Region XI All-Region teams. Named to the First Team were Kelly

Campbellsville University Board of Trustee members die

BY JOAN C. MCKINNEY, Editor

The Rev. Ferrill Gardner, long-time pastor of Carlisle Avenue Baptist Church in Louisville, and Dr. Roy L. Honeycutt Jr., former president of The Southern Baptist Theological Seminary in Louisville have died.

Honeycutt died Dec. 21, 2004 and Gardner died March 27, 2005. Honeycutt was 78, and Gardner was 70.

Gardner was a trustee from 1987 to 1990, from 1991 to 1994, from 1996 to 2000 and from 2001 to 2004. Honeycutt served as a trustee from 1998 to 2002 and from 2003 to 2004.

"Rev. Gardner and Dr. Honeycutt were wonderful, Christian men. They loved Campbellsville University and were committed to Christian higher education. They are sorely missed," said Dr. Michael V. Carter, president of CU.

Gardner was ordained as a minister in 1953 at Oak Hill Baptist Church in LaRue County. He had served in many churches throughout the state, but spent the largest portion of his ministry at Carlisle Avenue Baptist Church where he was pastor from 1975 to 1996.

Rev. Ferrill Gardner

At the time of his death, he was serving as pastor at Middle Creek Baptist Church in Hodgenville, Ky. He also served as a teacher at The Southern Baptist Theological Seminary and as a pastoral care minister at The Little Flock Baptist Church.

He is survived by his wife of 50 years, the former Lou Rae Reed. Mrs. Gardner can be reached at 5554 Bruce Ave., Louisville, Ky. 40214-4202.

Honeycutt was an Army veteran of World War II, a retired president of The Southern Baptist Theological Seminary and a member of the Downtown Rotary and Crescent Hill Baptist Church.

Among Honeycutt's major accomplishments at Southern were the construction of the main section of the Honeycutt Campus Center and a significant expansion of the faculty.

Honeycutt served as academic dean at Midwestern Baptist Theological Seminary from 1971 to 1975 and chairman of Midwestern's Old Testament department from 1963 to 1975 prior to joining the Southern Seminary faculty as a professor of Old Testament.

Dr. Roy Honeycutt

He served as dean of the School of Theology at Southern from 1975 to 1980 and provost at the Louisville, Ky., campus from 1976 to 1982. After retiring as president, he was Southern's chancellor from 1994 to 1997.

Honeycutt published numerous books and articles, including a volume of the "Broadman Bible Commentary" in 1970. He is survived by his wife of 56 years, June Honeycutt. Mrs. Honeycutt can be reached at 2911 Lilac Way, Louisville, Ky. 40206-2912. 🌸

CU centennial books to be published

BY JOAN C. MCKINNEY, Editor

Campbellsville University's 100th birthday will be celebrated the academic year of 2006-07 with two books being published to honor the university.

"A very special group of people have been working for almost three years in preparation for this historical event," said John Chowning, vice president for church and external relations and chair of the centennial celebration. "The Centennial History Committee, chaired by CU Academic Affairs Vice President Emeritus

Dr. Robert Clark, has worked thousands of hours collectively in researching and preparing two books that will serve as highlights of the overall celebration."

The History of Campbellsville University - 1906-2006 is a detailed narrative history written by Dr. J. Chester Badgett. "Dr. Badgett's attention to detail and historical research has helped us immensely in the effort to preserve the rich history of the institution," Chowning said. "Mr. Gordon Smith has served as editor of the book with input and assistance from a number of committee members and others on campus and in the local community." The cost is $19.95.

Chowning said, "A Portrait of Campbellsville University - 1906-2006 will be a beautiful pictorial history of the institution. It will include a brief narrative, a timeline and numerous photographs that portray the four historical phases of the institution (e.g., Russell Creek Academy, Campbellsville Junior College, Campbellsville College, and Campbellsville University)." It costs $29.95. Both books can be purchased together for $42.50.

"Mrs. Betty Jane Gorin-Smith, Dr. Jerry Kibbons, Professor Clara Metzmeier, Professor Stan McKinney and Mrs. Joan McKinney served as a subcommittee and worked diligently on the pictorial history," he said.

Chowning said, "During the process of preparing these two books, which will be published by Harmony House Publishers and released in the fall of 2005, numerous historical documents, stories and special collections have been received from CU alumni and friends." The items have been placed in the university archives in Montgomery Library where they are catalogued and preserved for future reference. Copies of the discs and research material for the books are also being placed in the archives for use by future generations.

The group is discussing an oral history project that would continue through 2007 in an effort to interview and record the stories and thoughts of those who have worked for extended periods of time on our campus and in the community. 🍁

CU alumni will be able to attend 14 events

BY BENJI KELLY, Director of Alumni Relations

Since becoming director of alumni relations, I have had the wonderful opportunity to meet many alumni of our great alma mater at CU Alumni and Friends regional events.

These events are a wonderful way for alumni to get together and renew friendships.

This year 14 events are planned. See the fall events listed on page 31.

In the spring, we plan to host events in the following cities in Kentucky: Lexington, Louisville, Owensboro, Danville, Russell Springs, London and Elizabethtown as well as in Nashville, Tenn., and Cincinnati, Ohio.

We hope you will join us for an event in a city near you and bring prospective students. Each event will include a meal and a short program designed to showcase the changes that have occurred on campus. You'll also hear about life at CU from current students' perspective.

Please check our Web site, www.campbellsville.edu, to see when we are coming to a city near you! 🍁
